

*The Magic of

Obviously, the most magical thing about greenhouse is the climate it can capture inside, even in the northern hemisphere. Chili peppers, tomatoes and many other plants prefer more warm environment to produce lots of pods and to ripen the pods in time. So for more exotic plants, greenhouse is not just a better option, for some specific varieties it's basically a must if you want to achieve good results.

But have you ever been thinking that the greenhouse can also be a paradise for YOU, the gardener? If you like more warm weather, you will LOVE a greenhouse for sure as it will make your spring, summer and autumn so much warmer. Always get a greenhouse with more square meters you first think of getting. To start the season, you can definitely fit many plants there. But when it's autumn, the plants will conquer all the space in your greenhouse, leaving no space for the light to make your plants bear the best yield. Also, you won't have too much space to move around the greenhouse. During the cold days you can enjoy a cup of tea, coffee or whatever with your plants. It's almost always more warm in the greenhouse as the sun heats the room very efficiently even in a cloudy day. You can even put a jacuzzi in your greenhouse! I actually did this and it was the most comfortable thing to do as it can get quite hot working in the greenhouse during a hot day. I used to have my jacuzzi outdoors but at least here in Finland as there are not that many warm outdoor days in summer. Even less warm days during the spring and autumn. My jacuzzi takes about two-three square meters of space from 30 square meter room so I think it was definitely worth those few square meters!

What a warm and very well lighted environment can do to your overall mood and well-being is simply amazing.

You can decide to put a table and chairs in your greenhouse too.

Having a piece of your custom build jungle on your yard is the greatest thing ever!

During the winter greenhouse can work as a warehouse for garden equipment, lawnmower, outdoor table and chairs etc.

A spacious greenhouse is definitely a big step towards a self-sufficiency. It might not get you there immediately, but much closer for sure. And you will quickly learn how great home-grown fruits and vegetables can taste compared to ones you used to buy.

PLANTS WILL LOVE A GREENHOUSE FOR SURE, BUT A GREENHOUSE CAN ALSO BE A PARADISE FOR YOU AND YOUR FAMILY.

- Ideal place for even the most exotic plants which love higher temperature.
- Lovely place for anyone who likes a warm environment. Place tables, chairs or even a jacuzzi in your greenhouse for maximum enjoyment. It'll be a warm place even during cloudy days.
- Works as a warehouse during the winter.
